

Footprints of Betty Nilsdotter Blomberg in Sweden

By Hans Forsslund 2014

She was born in Borgvik's parish 1850 a beautiful place at the shore on a bay of the big lake Vänern in Värmland.

Her parents came from Boda and Brunskog both places in Värmland.

Betty Nilsdotter Blomberg's parents where Nils Jonnson 30/9 1813 from Lerboda, Boda parish and Britta Jansdotter b.1814 from Sävelskog, Brunskog parish.

They married in May 1834 and he moved in at her parent's farm Säveskog. Britta's father Jan Andersson was born 30/8 1789 at the same farm. Britta's mother Sara Andesdotter was born 1790.

At Säveskog Nils and Britta had 3 children, Anna 1834, Kajsa 1836, Magdalena 1839.

After 5 years living with Britta's parents, they 1839 moved to Borgvik a small mill town vest of Karlstad in Värmland.

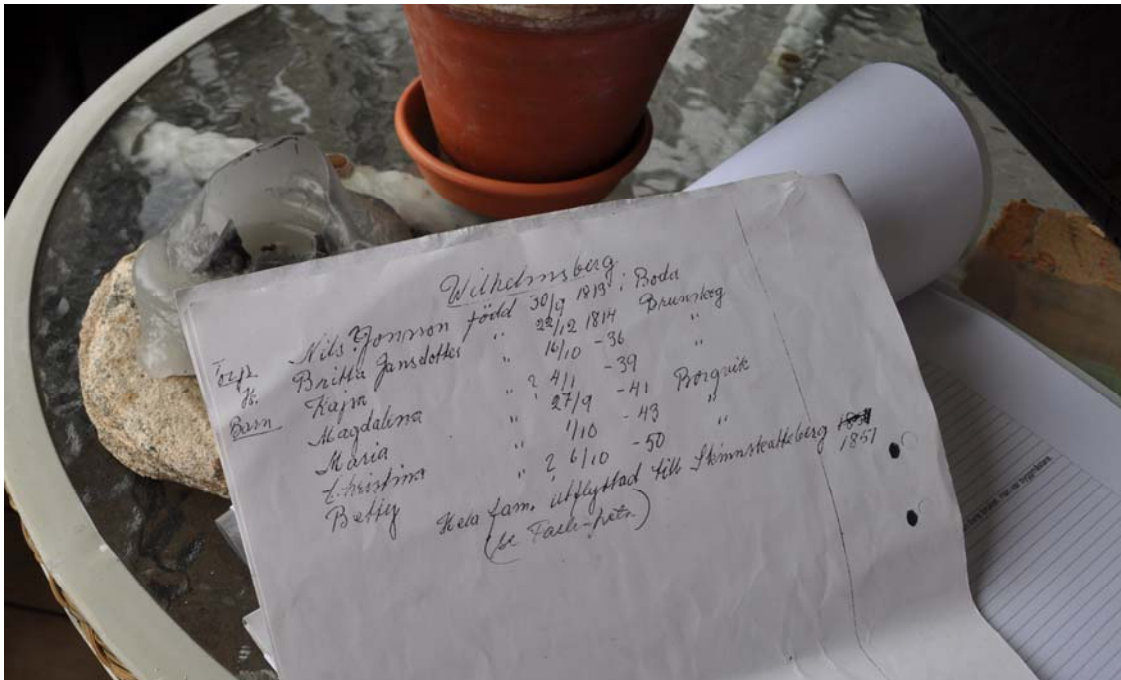

Betty's parents first settled in West Borgvik (1) where Maria 1841 is born. They then moved to "Övre Bruket" (2) where Christina 1843 and Johan Fredrik are born. 1844 the oldest child Anna dies. In 1847 Nils becomes his own as tenant farmer at a place called Fasthetn (3). In 1849 Andes is born but when they 1850 move to Wilhems Burg (4), a small farm but probably better, the two boys are missing in the church book. Here Betty is born the same year. When Betty was born she had 4 older sisters.

Betty was born in West Borgvik at a place named Wilhems Burg in the church books. That is Vilemsberg today. Titti and Hans Forsslund one day in June 2012 went to Borgsvik to try locate where she was born. The first attempt was a failure but some days later we found the place and to our joy, the house was still there.

The owners Leif Jonsson and Gunilla Rosenberg were there and invited us for coffee. The place is north of the lake Holmtjärnen Coordinates: 59° 21' 2.69" N 12° 54' 32.82" E

Gunnila had done some research on who had lived in the house and we were really surprised when she showed us her papers and we found Betty's name there

Livingroom with poor mans stove still in use. The flue gas from the kitchen stove is lead in channels inside the brickwork to take care of the heat and store it for the nights

Kitchen with fire stove. The arrangement is probably from the time when Betty lived here.

This is the house where Betty was born and lived in her first year. Of course, things are changed but you can still see and imagine how it looked like and functioned. The roof is higher now and there are place for small rooms upstairs.

Today the house is used as a summer cabin.

Betty, at about one year of age, her family moves to Lindshyttan in Skinnskatteberg in Västmaland where her father took on as an estate builder. Here she got another sister Augusta 26/7 1853. Lindshyttan was probably situated near Riddarhyttan.

In 1854 they moved to Uggelfors in Skinnskatteberg where her brother Carl Johan was born 1856 14/8.

In 1857 her family moves to Frykforsen, Stora Kil were her father became the owner of the mill. At this mill her sister Magdalena marries 21/7 1860 Anders Olofsson, Farm owner in Gunnita. Four years later her sister Maria leaves home at the age of 23. (3/5 1864)

Soon after that her mother dies of unknown reason, 6/6 1864 (in the death book the cause is not registered). Later the same year her sister Kristina marries Farm hand Olof Johansson from Köping and moves to Frykerud.

Betty now fourteen year of age is the oldest child at home with her younger sister Augusta 11 and brother Karl Johan 8.

After her mothers death when Betty is sixteen (1866), her father Nils marries the widow Kristina Gustafsdotter (b.14/8 1815) and they leave the mill and move to her farm in North Illberg. Betty's gets new siblings through her stepmother's children, 4 boys and 2 girls between 7 and 24. They are now all together nine children. They stayed at this farm until 1870 they moved to Lindesnar in Frykerud.

The finishing works at the railroad bridge across the Nors River 1870. Not far from Betty's home when she lived at the Fryfors mill (1,5 miles).

At the age of about twenty Betty meets the stone cutter Anders Johan Larsson Blomberg (31) who was building bridges in the area. They married at The Stora Kil church in midsummer time, June 22 1870.

Anders Johan Larsson Blomberg	1839	1

After their marriage the couple moved home to Anders' mother Maja Stina Modig in Daretorp.

There they stayed with Anders' younger sister Gustafa and his brother Alfred. The house was a "backstuga" (small hill cottage) a house for poor people. Anders had lost his father 15 years earlier and the children felt a responsibility for their mother.

After a little bit more than a year, According to the books, Betty and Anders move to Steneby parish, where Anders works at Långeds pulp Factory.

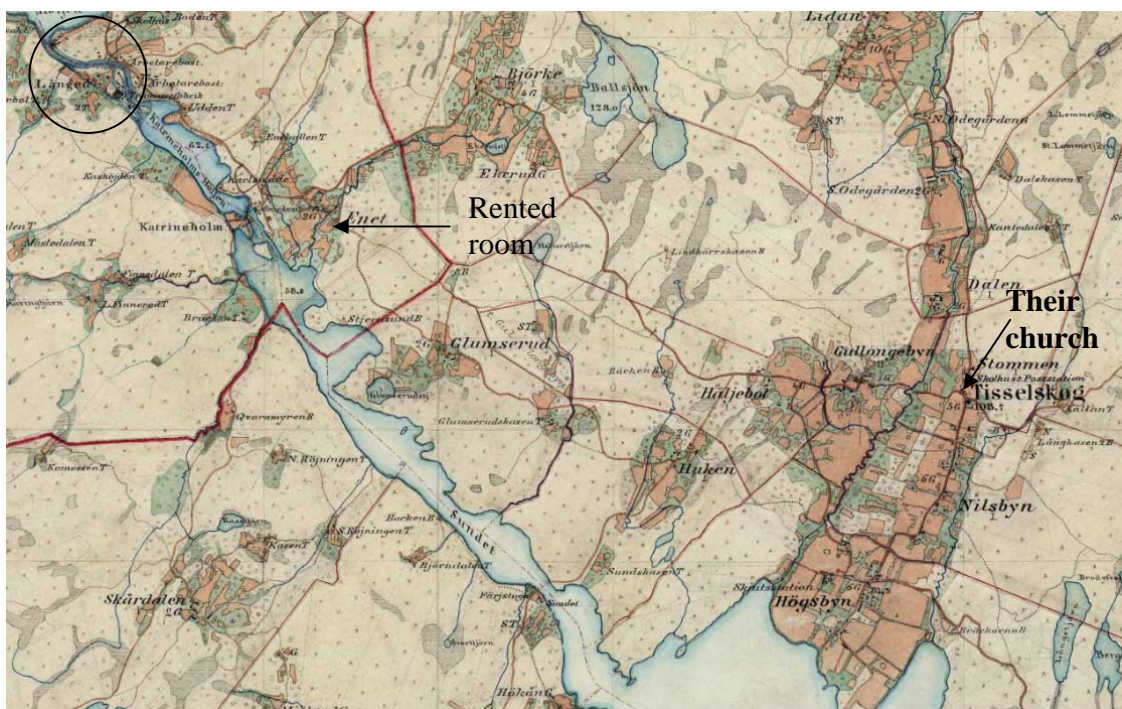

This is not the real case because in the book “The history of the foundation builder Alfred Larsson-Blomberg” there is another story told. Anders and his brother Alfred worked together in Daretorp building a Carpentry Factory. Alfred writes: “My brother had been in Wärmland at railways buildings and had been foreman for bridges and tunnels. By his former chef my brother was recommended to a pulp factory that was going to be built at Dalslands Channel at a place called Långed.

At once, after getting this message, he goes to Wärmaland and marries his Bätty. Fourteen days later I say goodbye to Tidaholm and join my brother and sister in law at a place called Frykforssen in Wärmaland the beautiful.” Alfred continues in next chapter: “Now it is the summer 1870. Now the carnival starts from Frykforssen. A farmer who drives all our belongings, my brother, sister in law, I and three railroaders heads towards Seffle. Then to Åmål and after another to 12 miles we are at our destination Långed. We all walked on foot after our farmer’s horse cart and if I am not mistaken it was about 50 miles but as we were young and healthy, it wasn’t boring days.
(The actual distance today with better roads is 70 miles, he was mistaken)

My brother rented a room and kitchen 1,5 miles from Långed at a farm called Ene. All of us in one room, the newlyweds in on bed, me and the tree railroaders two and two in separate beds. Bätty cooks the food and carries it to us at our work for morning and afternoon meals.

On Sundays we all, young and old, went to church and we had to walk about 3 miles. (see last page) The name of the church was Tilleskogen.” (There are more details in the book that is very interesting and it is translated to English by Hans Forsslund 2012)

The farm where they lived is now in the village of Dals Långed. The church Tilleskogen is still in place but incorporated in the Högsby village.

The story above confirms by the fact that Bettys and Anders first child Hulda Marie is born 12/11 1871 in Långed and registered in Steneby parish church book as belonging to Daretorp parish. Betty and Anders and their child are registered as moving in to Steneby 26 days later than the birth of Hulda. Alfred didn't care to register and was all the time in the books of Daretorp. All this states that we can't rely on the church books when we want to follow the life's of our relatives.

The pulp factory, Långeds Aktiebolag, was a new company that started 1868 but the construction did not start until 1869 so Betty, Anders and Alfred were there almost from the beginning. The factory started its production in 1872 but there may have been construction jobs for Anders going on after that. Alfred left Nov 1871 because he didn't want to work in the factory. According to the books Betty and Anders in Långed stayed until February 2 1874 when they went on a long journey to settle in Kalmar County on the east coast of Sweden. But they must have left earlier because Alfred joins the couple in Emmaboda in late summer 1883. More about that below.

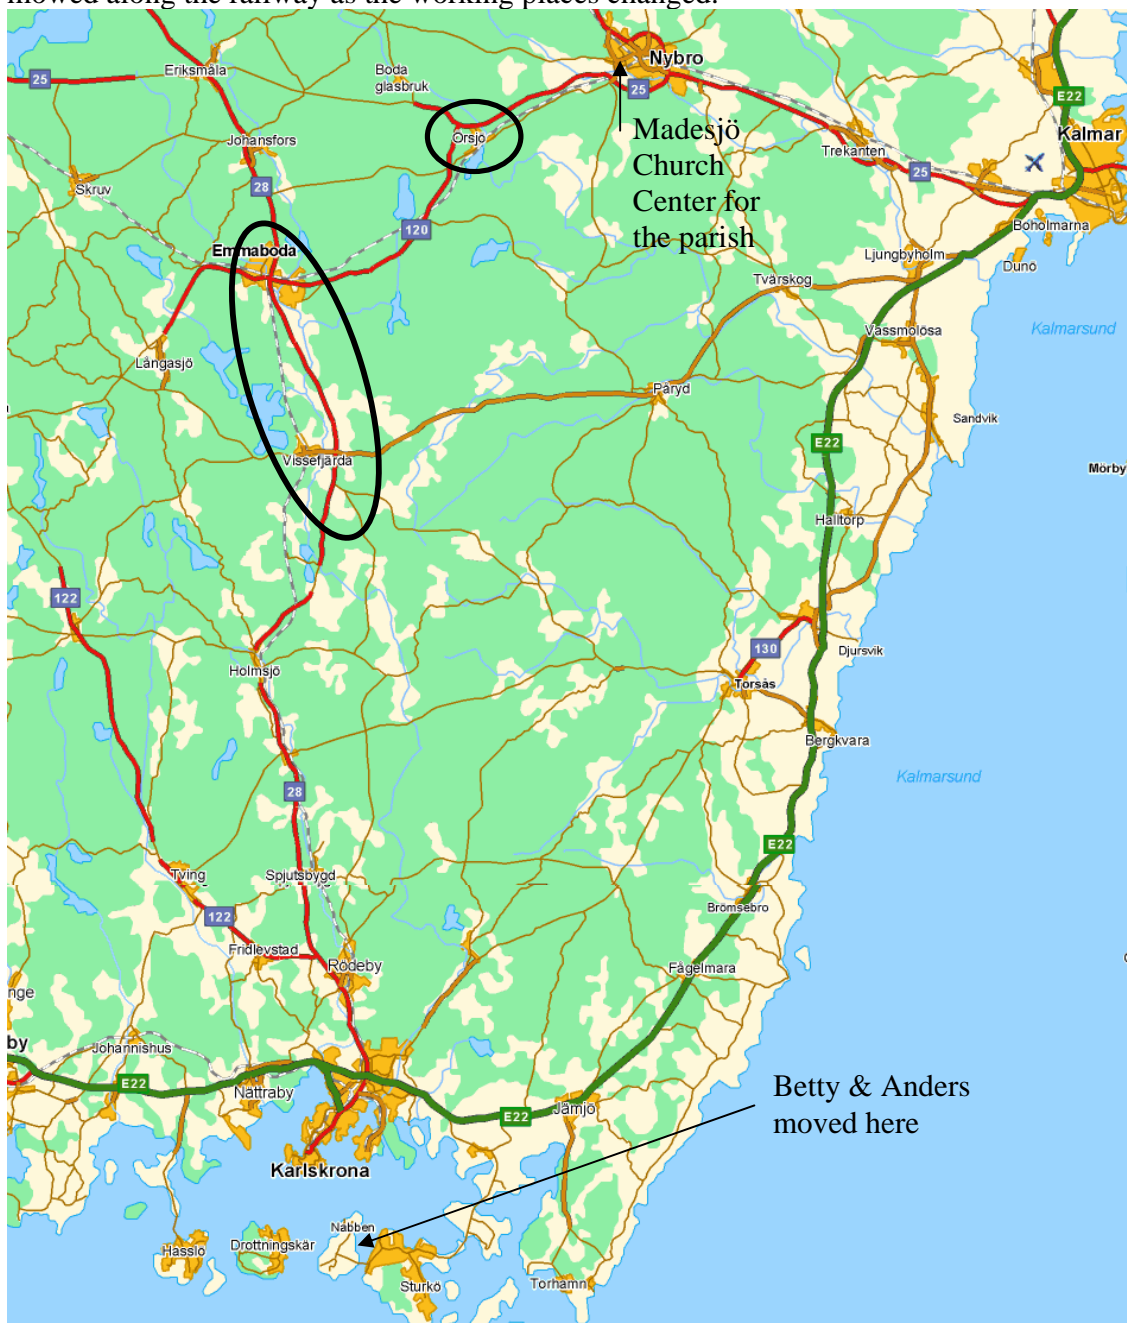

Örsjö, Madesjö parish, in Kalmar County

They registered, 12/2 1874 in the parish of Madesjö (Nybro) in N. Örsjö which is near Emmaboda. Already March 2 they asked for leaving that parish and said that they were going too Tjurkö in the parish of Augerum in Blekinge County. The explanation could have been that they earlier had asked for registration papers from Långed, Steneby and when the papers arrived they had changed plans. Alfred says in his book that they together took a train to Karlskrona April 24 1884.

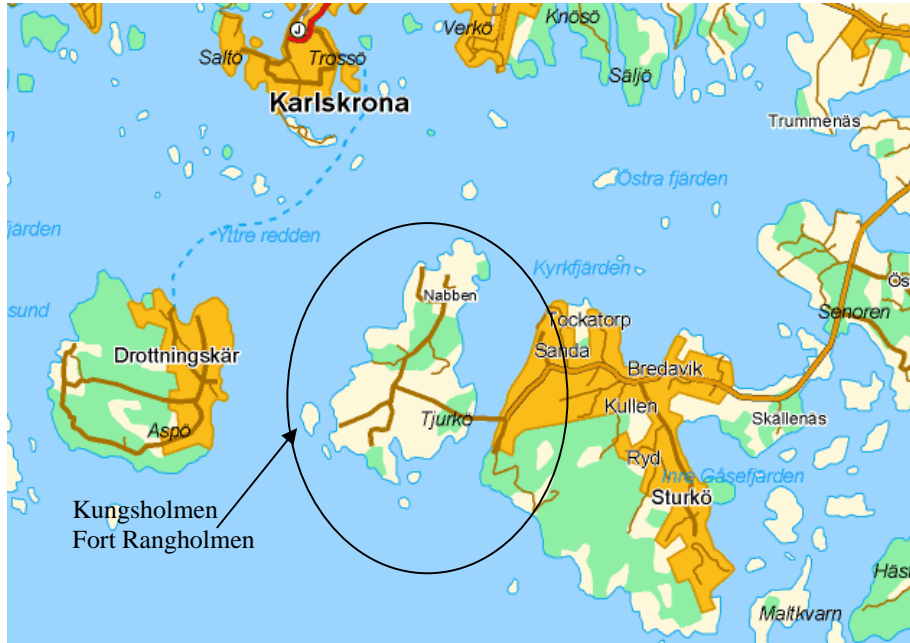

Alfred writes that he staid with Betty and Anders and that they had to walk 1,5 miles morning and afternoon. The working days were from 5 am to 8 pm. On Sundays he went to Vissefjärda church where they had a good priest. They probably had their home somewhere between Emmaboda and Vissefjärda. The place Örsjö where they were registered may be nearest to where Anders stated his work for the railway company. They probably mowed along the railway as the working places changed.

Tjurkö, Augerums parish in Bleking County

Tjurkö is an island south of Karlskrona the main navy base in Sweden. Tjurkö has since Karlskrona was founded, been a military fortified island and has many military installations.

Tjurkö was in the late 1800s the center of the stone cutting industry in Blekinge. Granite and gneiss was great to make cobblestones and a lot of people got employed, which meant that the population increased significantly in Tjurkö and the neighboring island Sturkö. The stonecutting plant was one of the nation's largest employers with 2,000 employees and the large quarry testifies today on the hard handcraft labor.

Alfred writes that they rented a room and kitchen on Kyrkö (he must have meant Tjurkö there is no Kyrkö) A temporary wooden bridge was built between the fort and Kyrkö so it was easy to get there and back. It took twenty minutes to walk and five a clock in the morning the entire workforce should be standing in the courtyard for prayer and we all - several hundred - sang, "Your clear sun rises again". It was good times all over our country, so it was even for us. But Brother Johan did not like it anymore at the fortress. He was there for about half a year. I then had to take over the work and 30 - 40 men. Later Alfred writes that the biggest stone (25*4*5) feet he got out of the quarry on Tjurkö is paced at entrance to the fort where it can be seen today.

At Turkö Betty and Anders second child was born 27/4 1874. He was named Hjalmar Reinhold and at the christening his father's brother Carl Modig and wife Magdalena served as witnesses.

In August that year the move back to Stora Kil Värmland to the place Gunnita

Fryforsen
Karsbol
Fagerås railway station

They didn't stay there all the time although they were registered in the church books. Apparently they went back to eastern Sweden and did some work. In 1876 their third child Ester Elisabeth was born in the parish of Lenhovda in Kronobergs Län. This is in the middle of Småland and the name of the place is Söfsjöström. Ester was born March 31 1876 and died August 6. She was buried there only 4 months old. The dates and year is wrong in the paper by Joyce Donalson "Descendants of Anders Johan Blomberg and Betty Nelsson Blomberg". After the tragic loss they went back to Gunnita in Värmland. There are no records of Anders working in Stockholm.

Probably Betty stayed in Gunnita. In April 27 1877 their fourth child Viktor Gideon was born.

After the birth of Gideon in November they moved across the border in to Frykerud parish, Karsbol not far from Gunnita. (About a mile south east) Here they seems to have strengthened their religious thoughts because when Ester Amalia is born August 15 1879, she is not baptized. In the church book there is a note "The parents Bapbister; Denying the child baptism"

The farm was quite big. The map doesn't show all of the land. To the right a close up of the buildings.

Anders is registered as farm owner. See next page for further localization information.

“Häradsekonomska” map 1883-95

The border between the parishes of Frykerud and Stora Kil went along the river Norselven so when Betty and family moved to Karsbol from Gunnita they had to check in at a new parish.

In Hulda’s childhood recollection she writes about Frykerud station but there was no railway in Frykerud village but the nearest from their home at Karsbol, only one kilometer (2/3 mile), was Fagerås railway station. Betty’s childhood home at Frykforsen where her father had his mill was just in the middle between their homes in Gunnita and Karsbol.

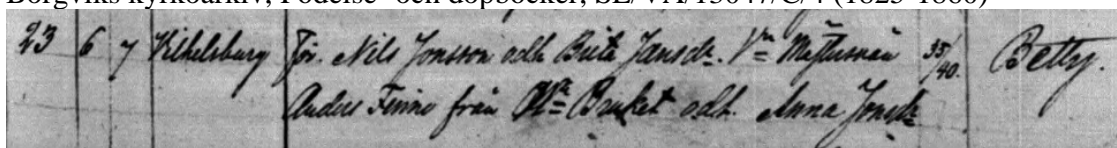

Behind the foot prints

To be able to put together these foot prints of Betty Nilson Blomberg I have searched church books, Old Maps from National Land Survey. Goggle Earth and other Internet sources. Below are some of those findings in Swedish. Above the copies from the church books I have put references to were I have found them. Most in document readers it is possible to magnify the document. Use this function and you will be able to better read what's written in the church book.
